Quality Assurance

Maintaining quality is important to our philosophy at AI Shohra. Hence we have adopted a set of standards that allow us to maintain a high quality offering. We set up a dedicated quality control department with qualified and experienced material engineers to overlook the production and the quality of materials used in production. We constantly demand our suppliers to provide testing results conducted and copies of their quality reports. Furthermore, we collaborate with testing labs in Europe and the Middle East to occasionally verify our testing results.

ASTM

These set of standards are the gold standard of the plastics industry. This test methodology is used to test our products by our quality control division. The test covers tensile strength, elongation at break, resistance to tear and puncture strength among others. The test results and datasheets are available for each of our films upon request.

ISO 9001

This international standard specifies the necessary processes and requirements within an organization to consistently meet its customer's quality requirements. Because there can be no compromise on the quality, AI Shohra is currently in the process of obtaining this certification.
